NOT DEAD, BUT LIVING WITH ANOTHER. PLOWERS FROM AN IMAGINARY BURIAL WREATH-FAILING TO GET A LEGACY AND DESERTED.

Edward Croft Ryland and his wife Elsie have fignred considerably in the crimmal records of this city. Particular interest was lent to their history by the statement that Ryland when he was arrested with his wife and two accomplices two years ago for check-raising learned that he had fallen hear to £18,000 by the death of a sister in Loudon. In the trial that followed, the woman received a sentence of two years and six months in the State Prison while Ryland escaped. In all of his trouble before, his wife had stood by him faithfully, and in her trouble he did what he could to free her. He secured her release pending a new trial on $100.
She prudently "jumped" her bail and fied. Then the husband sailed for England to gather in his legacy. Disappointment met him on the other side.
Others had obtained possession of his money and he was reduced to begging for a living in the streets of London.

he was reduced to begging for a living in the streets of London.

In the course of time he secured enough to pay his steerage passage back to this city, where he arrived a few months ago. He is an old man and the first thing that he did was to send for his voung wife. She was then in Baltimore. But in the time which had elapsed her-affections had become estranged, and hearing of his ill success in London she sent him word that she would not return. The old man, broken down by this last blow went to live in the Almshouse on Blackwell's Island. On May 3 the mail brought him a letter from Fanny Woodward, the woman with whom his wife had been living in Baltimore, telling him of Elsie's death. The letter concluded as follows:

Although wasted to a skeleton I think you would like to

The letter concluded as follows:

Although wasted to a skeleton I think you would like to have seen her as she looked so sweet and fair and pretty in her coffin. We buried her in a white cashmere dress trimmed with white lace, the graduating dress belonging to Eva. I have pressed two blossoms from her wreath which went on her casket, which was neat and very handsome. I will send the flowers to you if you wish. She was more sinned against than sinning. We speak nothing but good of the dead. I trust that the balance of your life may be happy. I melose you a stamp, as you may want to write for a lock of her hair.

With the letter was the death restricted.

With the letter was the death notice of Elsie cut from a Baltimore newspaper, which stated that she had died of consumption and that the body was sent to Washington for burial. New-York papers were requested to copy the notice. This letter was too much for the old convict and he took the letter to Inspector Byrnes, who on inquiring of the Baltimore authorities learned that no such death had taken place in that city and that no such person had been buried in Washington. Detective Sergeants Slevin and O'Connor were detailed to search for the woman. They found her on June 12 living with a thief named William Carter, alias "Pretty". Bill, in Philadelphia. Yesterday she was brought to this city. Last night she pined behind the bars at Police Headquarters. To-day she will be taken to court and it is likely that she will fill her unexpired term of two years and six months in State prison, with some additional time for "jumping" her bail. She is twenty-eight years old and pretty. With the letter was the death notice of Elsie cu

THE CLOTHING-HOUSE SUSPENSIONS. "BALDWIN, THE CLOTHIER," NOT INVOLVED-THE

FIRM HOPING TO PAY ALL CREDITORS.

FIRM HOPING TO PAY ALL CREDITORS.

The business of "Baldwin, the Clothier," at Canal-st, and Broadway, is not affected by the suspension of Carhart, Whitford & Co., the wholesale clothing merchants. O. S. Baldwin said to a TRIBUNE reporter vesterday:

"Baldwin, the Clothier,' is a trademark and belongs to me. It has been used in the interest of Carhart, Whitford & Co., whose goods I have been selling on commission. Their failure does not involve 'Baldwin, the Clothier,' in any way. The business will go on as it always has done without any interference arising from the suspension of that firm. All my property is intact, and in my own name, not in my wife's. I own the Brooklyn building, but rent this. I am a commission merchant, solely, and prefer to remain so. There is not a dollar due to me in my business, which I have carried on for seventeen years with a loss of only $1,200 in that time, and that has been from counterfeit money through parcel delivery clerks in both my stores, $900 in the New-York store and $300 in the Brooklyn store. I want to say this, that from my intimate connection with Carhart, Whitford & Co. stores, $900 in the New-York store and $300 in the Brooklyn store. I want to say this, that from my intimate connection with Carhart, Whitford & Co., I know that this is as square a suspension as has ever been made in this city. The fact that there are no preferences shows this. I have known the various members of the firm for twenty-five years and have been connected with them in business for sixteen years, and I do not know of any more consected to the firm of the property of the propert scientious men, or men of better motive. I see no reason why they may not go right on, because they are well fortified in the good opinion of the merchants of this city."

John B. Van Wagenen, who was in his office on the second floor of the building, said:

"The cause of the suspension was principally the complications arising from the death of A. T. Hamilton in May last, which followed so soon after the death of Thomas F. Carhart, in December, 4882. Had it not been for this we could have tided over the difficulties. When Mr. Carhart died he left $300,000 in a special partnership for i.ve years. Mr. Hamilton's death would necessitate the formaliton of a new partnership in July. Under Mr. Carhart's will, we couldn't well form a new partnership, and so thought that we ought to stop and settle up. Our statement will not be ready for a fortnight yet. The creditors are all favorably disposed to us. Many of them have been in this morning and have expressed themselves as perfectly satisfied with our course. I believe that we will come out all right and be able to pay every one in full, but in settling up such an immense business there must necessarily be a great deal of wastage."

Another of the partners said:

"If it had not been for the recent troubles in Wall! Street and the death of Mr. Hamilton this thing would not have happened. There is hardly any one who wants commercial paper now and the banks are giving no discount. We do not owe nearly as much as we did at this time last year. We kept on hoping that things would improve, and paid our notes up to the last day. I have no doubt that our stock will all be sold off to the best advantage.

One of the consequences of the failure of Carhart, Whitford & Co. is the assignment of Best & Co., proprietors of the Liliputian Bazaar." Nos. 60 and 62 West Twenty-third-st., made yesterday without preferences to Henry Redfield. The general partners in Carhart, Whitford & Co. was special in the sum of $15.000 from May 19, 1882, to December 31, 1885. The firm began business in that the failure of the latter firm made their assignment a matter of necessity.

Fernandez & Castillo, commission merchants, No. 35 Broadway, made an assignment yesterday to Walter R. Leggat, with preferences of $25,300, the largest of which are:—To Josefina Castro de Llano $20,000 and Jose Cæsar Llano $6,000. The firm was composed of Miguel Fernandez and Jose Perez Del Castillo, and was formed in November, 1882, to succeed to the business of A. Aranzo'& Co., of which firm Fernandez had been a member for several years. Mr. Castillo was one of the organizers of the Spanish-American'Light and Power Company, which obtained a practical monopoly of the gas business in Havana, Cuba, by leasing the two rival gas companies there. The firm sent various articles of American manufacture to different ports in the West Indies, South and Central America and received consignments of sugar, rubber &c., in return, The failure is said to be one mainly to overadvances on consignments of sugars.

MANY CASES OF MEASLES IN A TENEMENT. MANY CASES OF MEASLES IN A TENEMENT. An outbreak of measles in the six-story tenementhouse No. 126 Cherry-st. attracted the attention of Sanitary Inspectors two weeks ago. On June 6, 11, and 14, reports were made by a dispensary physician that children of the Mason, White and Barlow families were sick with the contagious disease. A child of Mr. White died ton Saturday. The house contains about twenty families. A report that two children had died suidenly in the house eached the Sanitary Bureau yesterday, and Dr. Comant was sent to inspect the house. On the first floor he found the body of John Canlield, seven months old. The child had been suffering from measles, but the parents had not summoned a physician. Catharme Morrissey, a foundling five months old, had died on the same floor on Tuesday morning, but the body had been removed firon the house. The child had been in the care of Mrs. Curtin, an inmate of the house, who received it at the Foundling Asylum. Mrs. Oliver, a widow, lived on that floor also, and her little daughter Fannie was sick in a rear room. The windows were closed fast, the air within was hot and the child was covered with five blankets. Dr. Conant told the mother that she was killing her child with mistaken care, and ordered her to open the windows and take, off some of the blankets. On the third floor a long-shoreman named Coleman and his wife were watching their child, two years old, which was suffering from croup resulting from measles. The child was already beyond the reach of medical aid. Dr. Connant saw that it was dying. In other parts of the house children who had been sick with measles were recovering. RETRENCHMENT AT CASTLE GARDEN. RETRENCHMENT AT CASTLE GARDEN.
A committee of the Emigration Commissioners met at Castle Garden yesterday and discussed the necessity of making some changes of employes to reduce expenses. Commissioner Stephenson maintained that as the revenues amounted to about $13,000 a month and the expenses averaged $15,000 a month, that the Board had no legal right to contract any debts. He also said that there were 242 immigrants at Ward's Island who had no legal right to support and care from the immigrant fund. It was decided to recommend to the Board to discontinue the salaries, amounting to about $1,200 a year, paid to the chaplains at Ward's Island, and to make re-ductions in the employes at Castle Garden and Wards Island, to save about $8,870 in salaries.

CONFERENCES BETWEEN PLUMBERS AND EMPLOYERS FUTILE—BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT.

The Association of Master Plumbers met at No.
52 Union Square yesterday afternoon. About 200 members were present. The object of the meeting was to consider the action of the Journeymen Plumbers' Association in ordering a strike at the shop of John Tuomey, No. 124 Park-ave. On Saturday, May 31, John Leddy, a journeyman, was sent to work at Flushing, L.I. He quit work at 3 o'clock in the afternoon to reach the shop in this city to draw his pay at 4 o'clock. As he worked only-seven hours Tuomey discharged him. One of the rules of the Journeymen's Association is that the time required in returning to the shop shall be considered working time. A strike followed and the twenty-two men quitting work threw out of employment the twenty-two, helpers, who are boys. The matter was reported to the Masters' Association and a committee of "bosses," James Gillroy, James Muir, Philip Brady, N. G. Geraty, and T. G. Byrne, was appointed. This committee met a similar number of journeymen. Three conferences were held with no satisfactory result. The journeymen demanded that the master plumbers should acknowledge the error of Mr. Tuomey and that the discharged John Leddy be re-employed. Mr. Tuomey admitted that he had without knowing it violated one of the rules of the journeymen's organization, but said that he would not take Leddy back.

The committee of master plumbers reported yesterday afternoon to the association that there was no chance of arbitration. The journeymen were unjust, unreasoanble, were willing to concede nothing, and exacted everything. There were only two ways to settle the matter—by resistance or submission. Finally, the committee recommended the adoption of a resolution that on Monday next the master plumbers 'discharge every one of their employes, journeymen and apprentices, who are members of the Journeymen's Association; and that they refuse to employ such members while the strike lasts. Chairman MacDonaid said that several owners o plumbers assert that of the 1,600 in the city, about 1,100 are members of the journeymen's association, and that if they stand firm the strike will succeed. They are paid from $21 to $24 a week, eight hours being a day's work. There are about three hundred and fifty master plumbers in the city, about three-fourths of whom are members of the Masters' Association. They say that as there are few contracts on hand, with a likelihood of a dull summer, they can "hammer down" the strike.

DYSPEPSIA DRIVES A MAN TO SUICIDE. NO OTHER CAUSE ASSIGNED FOR SIMEON W. SIB-

Simeon Waldo Sibley, well-known among dry goods merchants of this city, as a member of the Boston firm of John L. Bremer & Co., committed suicide yesterday in the branch store of the firm, No. 62 Lecnard-st. Mr. Noyes, a clerk, went to the third floor and found Mr. Sibley lying on his back among some unopened boxes of goods, his face and neck covered with blood. The clerk gave an alarm and ran for a physician, thinking that Mr. Sibley had been attacked by hemorrhage. It was discovered, however, that he had cat his throat with a razor, severing the jugular vein, and that he was dead. The suicide caused great suprrise among the merchants in the neighborhood. Several of them spoke of Mr. Sibley as a "cast-iron man" and as one too much absoibed in a successful business to take much care about other matters. He was a large fleshy man, age thirty-eight, with dark hair and mustache and fine, determined features.

In the office of the firmpitywas said that Mr. Sibley had been a junior member for four years. He was born in Bennington, Vt., and was a descendant of an old New-England family. Twenty-five years ago he came to this city to learn the dry goods business as a clerk for A. T. Stewart. Afterward he was employed for thirteen, years as a salesman by George C. Richardson & Co., at No. 115 Worth-st. He was in the employ of John L. Bremer & Co. for three; years before he became a partner, and was so aftentive to business that he went little in society. With the best financial prospects he was married about two years ago to a widow. They lived in the Berkeley House, No. 20 Fifth-ave. The only apparent drawback to Mr. Sibley's happiness was chronic dyspepsia, from which he suffered for years. At times his complaint occasioned fits of mental and physical prostration. On Tucsday it was noticed that he was suffering acutely from it, and shortly before his death, he showed unmistakable symptoms of pain. It was believed that his dyspepsia had driven him insane. At his home it was said that no other cause for suicide was know LEY'S RASH ACT.

Playing the part of Micawber, "waiting for something to turn up," has become dreadfully monotonous to the grain members of the Produce Exchange who assemble around the "bull ring" on the main floor hoping against hope for a rush of business. Yesterday they became exasperated, and when at 12:30 o'clock one of the members moved to adjourn to the reception room there was not a dissenting voice. A line was immediately formed and about three hundred members, those of forty-live years and over mingling with the younger men without objection, marched through the hall, up the stairway and into the reception room, where selections from Strauss and other well-known composers were wrenched from the piano by Frederick C. Griffiths, of Leighton & Griffiths, and dancing and vocal entertainment were inadulged in "Black Dan" Dixon, of H. B.-Hebert & Co., "Dapper Charley" Kennedy, of George C. Martin & Co., Butler Williamson, of H. C. Howell & Co., and Ernest M. Munn, of Munn & Jenkins, formed a quartette and gave several selections. Benjamin F. Cogger sang "When I lirst put this uniform on." Returning to the floor the members anused themselves in hilarious skylarking, and E. Lyttleton Adams had a new white beaver hat demolished. So remarkably dull is business at present that there was no difficulty in getting names signed to a petition to the Board asking that the Exchange be closed on July 5, to secure a double holiday week after next. There were 305 members who signed, and several suggested that they would be willing to vote for making the whole week one of holidays, as business is expected to pick up after the Fourth of July. DULL BUSINESS AND FUN ON 'CHANGE.

BETTER PRICES FOR JERSEY CATTLE.

Yesterday was the second day of Peter C. Kellogg & Co.'s second combination sale of Jersey cattle for 1884. The American Horse Exchange was well filled and the actioneer's call for bids elicited echoing responses that pleased the sellers and excited the buyers. The sixty-nine lots sold brought $6,435 more than the same number sold on the previous day. Nymph of St. Lambert, by Stoke Pegis 3d out of Diana of St. Lambert, brought the highest price of the sale, $1,500, and went to V. E. Fuller of Hamilton, Ontario. Satin, a five-year-old cow by Duke of Darlington out of Orlole, and Matchless of St. Lambert, a five-year-old cow by Orioff out of Primrose of St. Lambert, brought $1,000 each, the former being bought by T. S. Cooper, the well-known breeder and importer of Jersey cattle, of Penusylvania, and the latter by William Rockefelier of Greenwich, Conn. Cocotte, an imported cow, went to James Stillman of this city for $800. Five others brought $500 or over each. The sixty-nine lots brought in all $23,530. The feature of to-morrow's sale will be the buil, Farmer's Glory. He received five first prizes in England and on the Island of Jersey before he was brought to this country and has won first prizes at the Pennsylvania and New-Jersey State fairs. FATAL LEAP OF A BURGLAR.

Mrs. Fanny Hermann, the housekeeper of No. 11
Forsyth-st., sleeps in a hall bedroom on the third floor, the window of which looks out on the back yard, which is paved with rough flagstones. Last evening while she swas visiting a neighbor a stalwart young fellow entered the house and went up to Mrs. Hermann's room. He ransacked drawers, turned over mattresses, tore up the carpet and made a thorough search for valuables. He trad to break in the back of a wardrobe with his fists.
The noise attracted the attention of Mrs. Marks, who has a room on the second floor. Just then Mrs. Hermann returned. Both women went up stairs and pushing open the door startled the young robber. He made a spring for the window, which was open, and, going out head foremost, fell to the stone flags of the yard. He did not stir and the women summoned a policeman. The

BEDFORD FARMERS' CLUB MEETING.

ENTERTAINED BY MR. JAY-AN ENSILAGE CUTTER EXHIBITED.

The members of the Bedford Farmers' Club who attended the meeting yesterday found ample recompense for their dusty and tiresome journeys in the warm hospitality extended to them by John Jay, at whose homestead they gathered. The occasion was the regular monthly meeting of the club for the discussion of agricultural subjects and the exhibition of the workings of an ensilage cutter and elevator at the silo in operation upon green rye. This was the first time in four years that Mr. Jay had entertained the club at his house and the exceptional occasion called forth an immense number of the farmers of Westchester County, in the vicinity of Katonah. The meeting was called to order by Henry Pellew, the president. Papers were read and discussions made on the devastations of the fire worm among the fruit trees of the county. B. Gedney said that the only cure for the plague was by cutting down the trees as soon as the worms showed themselves, while James Wood held that insect powder or alcohol spray would kill the insects. Other remedies, such as tarring the trunks or spraying arsenie or Paris green on the foliage, were recommended by Mr. Teller, and a few remarks were offered by J. S. Holmes on the subject of the day. "The Feed and Care of Mileh Cows." Good feed, clean stables and careful currying seemed to be the only manner in which to secure satisfactory results. The farmers seemed equally divided as to the sanitary results secured from barley feeding, and instances were cited where somebody's baby awas killed by the milk, while others were unusually healthy. After Measur. Jay. in a few words, invited the assembly to accompany him to the barns where the ensilage cutter was to be worked. The silo was a large structure of stone foundations, and divided into four compartments of fifteen feet in cubical dimensions. Rye straw was cut in the eyele cutter, and an elevator raised it into the silo. After the method had been fully explained,

ARREST OF A DESPERATE YOUNG MAN.
George Hancock, of No. 75 Beech-st., Paterson N. J., rushed into the police station early yesterday, exhibited bleeding gashes in both arms, and asked for assistance against his son William, age twenty-three, who had driven his mother and his own child out of doors and tried to kill his father. Captain Bimson arrested the young man, who is said to have buried two wives, both of whom he treated in a shameful manner. When his second wife was ill recently he came home drunk and abused her so badly that a physician sent her to a hospital to keep her out of the way of his brutality, where she died. She was buried last week. On Tuesday Hancock sold some of his household furniture and went on a debauch. He went drunk to the house of his parents, and when his mother remonstrated with him he threw a pail of water at her. His father interfered and the brutal son attacked him with a knife. The old man, who was holding his son's two-year-old child in his arms, defended himself as well as he could, but received gashes in both arms, which he raised to ward off blows aimed at his heart. JERSEY CITY.

JERSEY CITY.

The decision of the Supreme Court that the act under which the present members of the Board of Finance were appointed is unconstitutional has excited much interest. From 1874 until 1882 the members were appointed by the Aldermen, but the law was changed, and the appointing power was placed in the hands of the Mayor. The decision of the Supreme Court declares the act of 1882 unconstitutional, but an appear has been taken to the Court of Errors, and the Board will remain as at present constituted until a final decision is reached. Last night A. A. Hardenbergh said that on being informed of the decision, he and his colleagues had thought of resigning, but had decided that it would be injurious to the financial interests of the city to do so.

ASSAULTED ON HER WAY TO CONEY ISLAND.

Justice Curren, of Flatbush, Long Island, has committed to jail for examination to-night John Rouch and William Ward, who are accused of assaulting Miss Mabel Lafayette in Lotts's woods, Ocean-ave, on Monday morning. The girl's story is that she came from Philadelphia on Sunday for good to Coney Island, where she has a "One track, you simpleton. Don't you see the engines would run together right there in front of the people, and that collision would be one of the most magnificent spectacles ever witnessed by the human eye. But don't give it away, 'cause I'm going to copyright the idea and play it on shares with Barnum next year. The country'll go wild over it. We'll have cheap locomotives made for our especial use, of course, and carry our own track with us. Then we'll put an engineer on each engine, and they'il do the grand jump act just before the collision, having something soft to light on, of gourse. Oh, there's millions in it, cully. Lead me a dollar to buy postage stamps to write to Barnum with, and I'll make you a present of the lemonade privileges first season.

HUNGRY GUESTS OF THE LONG ISLAND COMPANY WELL FED AND HOSPITABLY TREATED.

A Fourth-of-July explosion of fireworks, a black streak with a border of red, white and blue, a whiz across daisy-dotted fields and black jack forests,—affe the Long Island Railroad Company had started on the celebration of its fiftieth anniversary. Six cars moved from the depot at Long Island City behind "Old 91," "the best engine on the road," with Albert Luse at the throttle, at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and with the usual independence of a special train, rushed past way stations in dignified contempt. At Jamaica three cars from Flatbush were linked on behind, and Brooklyn and New-York thus united, all moved on serenely. The southern branch of the Long Island road was taken, and with a short step beside the sweet waters of Babylon, and the oyster smacks of Patchogue, the train dumped its three-hundred hungry passengers upon the sandy hills of Shinnecock, about eighty-dive miles from civilization. To the north spread Great Peconic Bay, and six hundred eyes sought the peaceful rest of the waters around Robins Island and for a moment there was silent admiration. Suddenly three hundred noses caught the savory funes of a clambake, which, by a providential veering of the wind, was mingled with the salt air of the Atlantic and enveloped the multitude. A sniff, and away rushed the starving three hundred, nor did they stop in their mad rush till, gathered on the leeward side of a great, smoking heap of seaweed, they opened wide their lungs and drank in the warm steam that arose from clams, sheepshead, fish, lobsters, chickens, cels, asparagus and potatoes, and imagined that they were cating. But Fresident Corbin left nothing to the imagination. With his corps of officials he did not rest till every mouth had been filled, then he sat down and ate in the presence of them all, and was satisfied. For dessert he served up a poem from the pen of Bloodgood H. Cutter, the poet-farmer, and that same writer distinguished himself by delivering the fi

The great popularity of this preparation, after its many years of test, should be an assurance, even to the most skeptical, that it is really meritorious. Those who have used HALL'S HAIR RENEWER know that used HALL'S HAIR RENEWER Know that it does all that is claimed.

It causes new growth of hair on bald heads—provided the hair follieles are not dead, which is seldom the case; restores natural color to gray or faded hair; preserves the scalp healthful and clear of dandruff; prevents the hair falling off or changing color; keeps it soft, pilant, lustrous, and causes it to grow long and thick.

Hall's Hair Renewer produces its effects by the healthful influence of its vegetable ingredients, which invigorate and rejuvenate. It is not a dye, and is a delightful article for toilet use. Containing no alcohol, it does not evaporate quickly and dry up the natural oil, leaving the hair harsh and brittle, as do other preparations.
